News from The Jindi Caf' and Post Office

After 9 ½ years of providing locals and visitors with a café and takeaway food service, post office and parcel service, newspapers. bread and milk, gas bottles, keys, and tourism information, Sue and Bryan must decide if they will commit to another two years' lease of the premises. They have very reluctantly decided that due to Bryan's ongoing health concerns, and a need to spend much more time with the four generations of the Goodwin family, they will instead retire.

Its been a tough run with moving sites in 2020, bushfires, and more recently Covid. The Caf' has stayed open as much as possible through all these, and continued to provide an essential service to the community from 7:30am – 6pm during the week so that those who work out of the area can pick up bread, milk, parcels etc on their way home. (Ironically this week it has opened without Covid restrictions and the Caf' is once more booming), The business is currently listed for sale with CRE Brokers: contact Mal on 0427572718 for further information. If the business doesn't sell the Caf' and all the other services may have to close by the end of July.

If these services are closed locals will need to go to Drouin for postal services and to Warragul, Drouin or Neerim South for all other services. Local groups currently meeting in the Caf' will have to develop a plan B, and life will be far less convenient for us all.

Jindivick Community Bus. The Jindivick community is fortunate to have a 10 seater bus available for community members for hire at a modest rate of $80 per day plus fuel and tolls. It is easy to drive and ideal for any group outing. It can be booked online at www.jindivick.org.au, it is parked at the Jindivick Hall, and after booking you simply pick up the key and drive it away. Fill it with diesel when you bring it back, give it a quick clean, return the key and you're all done. Unsurprisingly the bus has had little use over the last couple of years, so the Progress Association is keen to encourage Jindivickians to hire the bus and ensure its ongoing financial viability.

The Jindivick Gnomes, having missed their train, heard that the Jindivick Community Garden was in need of some TLC and maintenance. Some of the more industrious gnomes decided to check it out and maybe offer some assistance. They can be seen working away in the photos below. The Garden has greatly benefitted from the working bee but still needs more work. Have you visited the Garden lately? Have a look - maybe you can offer some guidance or assistance as well.

Debra H Clucker resumes her correspondence in May 2022

Oh no, we have a new predator on the farm, as if those fluffy legs are not enough! When the eagles are off terrorising someone else's farm, a pair of Sparrow Hawks, or maybe they are Goshawks, have come a-calling. They aren't strong enough to carry us girls away, but they can swoop down and bowl us over. Scary! They come out of nowhere, low to the ground and fast. Grab any stray eggs lying around and then gone. They leave you spinning and confused. Chooks running in all directions. I tell you, it's enough to put us off the lay.

They spoiled all the fun we had planned for the Easter egg hunt. Those party gate-crashers swiped our eggs. We had been looking forward to a bit of holiday fun, but we missed out. The hawks had their fun with their thievery and daily raids. Pair of bullies. The only Easter egg fun we had was pecking at the blue Eggmobile. Needless to say, it wasn't as good as eating Easter eggs, we couldn't even get through the blue wrapper.

Waiting now until the eagles decide to visit again and watch the hawks scatter in fright. Cowards. Three cheers for the fluffy legs. Hip hip hooray. (Didn't think I would ever say that).

Bye for now from Pecking Good Fun Debra. Cheers! Jindi Free Range Eggs ph 0402 981 478

Anita's Roasted Parsnip and Pear Soup

An unusual combination, but pears have a knack of bringing out the natural sweetness in parsnip. It's time to hunker down - this is the soup to do it with.

1kg parsnip, peeled, halved, quartered, chopped into chunks.

2 large pears, peeled, halved, core removed, chopped into chunks

2 tablespoons of olive oil Salt and pepper

2 sticks of celery - chopped 1 onion - peeled and finely chopped

3 tablespoons of butter

4 cups of chicken or vegetable stock

1/3 cup of cream

Preheat oven to 180c.

Place chopped parsnips on oven tray. Toss in olive oil. Season with S and P. Roast for 15 minutes checking that parsnip ends haven't burnt.

Now add pears to parsnip, gently toss through with tongs and roast for 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, melt butter gently in large pot, add celery and onions and cook without colouring for 5 minutes or until soft. Remove pot from heat.

The parsnips and pears will be tender now but don't worry if they're not completely. Combine parsnips and pears with onions and celery. Place pot back on heat. Add stock. Bring to boil, then turn down the heat and pop the lid on the pot. Simmer till veg is soft. Blitz with stick blender, add cream, maybe a little more salt and pepper if needed.

Garnish with some chopped parsley and enjoy.

St James Anglican Church, Jindivick When did you last attend a church? Was it for a wedding - or a funeral? Where did you get all your information on Christianity? Was it from Religious Instruction (RI) at school? Or, perhaps you were made to go to Sunday School? Yes, well I wasn't keen on that either. May I just say that everything is different when you are an adult. The stories might be the same, the songs might be similar but it is as if you are hearing it all for the first time. And it is not like a funeral. We don't all sit there with sad faces. We are not there because we have to be. It is our choice to be there because we find it enjoyable. Why don't you give it a chance? You will be made most welcome.

Nangara Notes

Scarlet Robin

During winter in this district, the Scarlet Robin, a favourite with many people, comes down from the high country and disperses in pairs through the forests and woodlands. They tend to return to their former territories each season but some individuals will often remain 'down here' over summer.

It is not unusual to see three species of 'red' robins in Nangara Reserve; Scarlet, Flame and Rose.

The male scarlet is a red, black and white bird with a white forehead patch. The scarlet breast does NOT extend up under the chin which is black. The female (below) is a muted version of the male with grey upperparts.

Scarlet Robins are perch and pounce birds. They sit on a low branch or log and peer at the ground in search of small invertebrates in the ground litter. After snapping up a small morsel, they often return to the same lookout position.

Generally, the female builds the nest on her own. She builds a neat cobweb-bound nest sometimes camouflaged with bark and lichen. Breeding season is from mid-winter to early-summer. The male vigorously defends the territory during this time. Breeding pairs may have 2 or 3 broods per season.

Scarlet Robin nests are often subject to raids by other species. Various cuckoo species will sometimes use Scarlet Robins as their host brooding parents for their eggs. Numbers of Scarlet Robins in the lowlands appear to fluctuate wildly from year to year. This may be in response to seasonal conditions, bushfires or perhaps climate change. The species is listed as Vulnerable in the ACT and NSW and Rare in SA. In Victoria they are regarded as Secure (for the time being?).

Further to the article about the Jindivick Action Group which opposed the establishment of a knackery in Beattie Rd.: "In the April newsletter a copy of the letter regarding the Knackery was published.

I am sure the community will join me in thanking Leanne Cook, Cheryl Warenycia, Bob Cole and Michelle Baker for all their hard work regarding this matter. Maz "

Jindivick Country Market The April market was a great success, even if the weather was a tad unkind. The new grass area at the Hall makes for a great space to hold the market and looks amazing when all set up.

The next market will not be until Saturday 1st OCTOBER. - Hope to see you all then.

If you would like to see more markets in Jindivck we are looking for more helpers. At present 3 per year is all we can manage. Contact Nikki for more information: nikkicadzow@gmail.com

In May the garden and nursery at Broughton Hall continue to open from Thursday to Sunday, 10 am till 4 pm. Treat Mum to a special Mother's Day, bring a picnic and wander through the garden, peruse the nursery, enjoy a tea or coffee in the garden room shop, and browse a huge selection of garden books: the perfect way to spend a warm still autumn day in Jindivick. Gift ideas for Mum also include Broughton Hall vouchers and the book of the garden, "The Charmed Garden at Broughton Hall".

Meet Miss Chilly Pepper of Sarowan Park, Jindivick

Rick first met Miss Chilly Pepper as a 3 month old foal in March 2019, purchased her that December, and brought her to live at Sarowan Park, Jindivick. Although now only 3 years old, this beautiful filly has won 8 Australian National Championships.

A major highlight of the 2022 Australian National Championships in Sydney, where Miss Chilly won her 8th Australian National Championship, was meeting the indigenous group, Nulunga Dreaming, who had performed a Welcome to Country Ceremony. Rick is not sure who were more excited - Miss Chilly Pepper who enjoyed the attention and loved the fuss and patting from the children, or the excited children clamouring all over her. Miss Chilly Pepper will now gracefully retire from the show scene for a while as she has a foal on the way (by Karanga Rockafella). She may return to the ring one day as a senior mare but for now is enjoying the lush pastures and hills at Sarowan Park in Jindivick: or she may continue to grace her paddocks, enjoying motherhood, as she has nothing further to prove to anyone.

The Jindivick Hall Committee plans to replace the back section of the Hall roof and rewire the main hall, and is currently obtaining quotes. Bookings for the Hall are increasing again post-Covid. It is nice to see the community using this public asset again. Prices and booking information can be obtained on line at Jindivick Hall Hire.
